

THE goods

Michigan's best brew, hand-dipped bowls from Minnesota, Wisconsin's official state pastry, and more Midwestern must-haves.

By Amy Perry

3

1

2

5

4

1 Distilled in Chicago, Koval liqueurs and spirits feature Lake Michigan water with a kick. Chrysanthemum-honey and caraway liqueurs, $24 each; sunchoke brandy, $33, 13-oz bottles, binnys.com

2 This flavorful wild rice, a heartland pantry staple, is the "caviar of grains." $11 for 16-oz bag, ramywildrice.com

3 Minneapolis mom Araya Jensen dips these turned-beech salad bowls in pretty shades of rubber. $32 each, windandwillowhome.com

4 A St. Louis mainstay, Ted Drewes frozen custard tastes like thicker, smoother, egg-ier ice cream. $140 for 8 pints, delivered, goldbely.com

5 These buckeyes, Ohio's chocolate-peanut butter bites, hail from the Toledo

burbs. $17 for four 8-oz containers, marshashomemadebuckeyes.com

6 An Ohio family business since 1971, Mosser Glass crafts this jadeite cake stand from luminescent flint glass. $55, food52.com/provisions